

1. The first group of respondents was composed of 100 randomly selected individuals from the general population of the United States. These respondents were contacted by mail and received a questionnaire and a cover letter explaining the purpose of the study. The questionnaire was mailed back to the researchers. The response rate for this group was 65%.

2. The second group of respondents was composed of 100 randomly selected individuals from the general population of the United States. These respondents were contacted by telephone and received a questionnaire and a cover letter explaining the purpose of the study. The questionnaire was mailed back to the researchers. The response rate for this group was 65%.

3. The third group of respondents was composed of 100 randomly selected individuals from the general population of the United States. These respondents were contacted by mail and received a questionnaire and a cover letter explaining the purpose of the study. The questionnaire was mailed back to the researchers. The response rate for this group was 65%.

4. The fourth group of respondents was composed of 100 randomly selected individuals from the general population of the United States. These respondents were contacted by telephone and received a questionnaire and a cover letter explaining the purpose of the study. The questionnaire was mailed back to the researchers. The response rate for this group was 65%.

5. The fifth group of respondents was composed of 100 randomly selected individuals from the general population of the United States. These respondents were contacted by mail and received a questionnaire and a cover letter explaining the purpose of the study. The questionnaire was mailed back to the researchers. The response rate for this group was 65%.

6. The sixth group of respondents was composed of 100 randomly selected individuals from the general population of the United States. These respondents were contacted by telephone and received a questionnaire and a cover letter explaining the purpose of the study. The questionnaire was mailed back to the researchers. The response rate for this group was 65%.

7. The seventh group of respondents was composed of 100 randomly selected individuals from the general population of the United States. These respondents were contacted by mail and received a questionnaire and a cover letter explaining the purpose of the study. The questionnaire was mailed back to the researchers. The response rate for this group was 65%.

8. The eighth group of respondents was composed of 100 randomly selected individuals from the general population of the United States. These respondents were contacted by telephone and received a questionnaire and a cover letter explaining the purpose of the study. The questionnaire was mailed back to the researchers. The response rate for this group was 65%.

9. The ninth group of respondents was composed of 100 randomly selected individuals from the general population of the United States. These respondents were contacted by mail and received a questionnaire and a cover letter explaining the purpose of the study. The questionnaire was mailed back to the researchers. The response rate for this group was 65%.

10. The tenth group of respondents was composed of 100 randomly selected individuals from the general population of the United States. These respondents were contacted by telephone and received a questionnaire and a cover letter explaining the purpose of the study. The questionnaire was mailed back to the researchers. The response rate for this group was 65%.

AARON J. LEWIS

3743

[illegible]

INTERFERENCE SEARCHED
Class	Subclass	Date	Examiner
128	200.23,
	200.14	10/3/04	A. J. L.

[illegible]